Biotech Careers Speaker Series Summer Program

BCSS

This fully online, five-week Biotech Careers Speaker Series will introduce students to potential careers in biotechnology, pharmaceuticals, medical devices, and other biomedical industries. Those participating will learn about a wide range of career alternatives from young professionals working in these industries, drawn from more than 700 alumni of KGI’s pathbreaking Master of Business and Science program.

2021 Schedule

• Welcome session: June 14
• Speaker series
  • June 15-July 1, Tuesdays and Thursdays from 12-1 p.m. PST
    • Speaker expertise in the fields of consulting, clinical and regulatory affairs, finance, marketing, operations/supply chain, and project management
  • July 5-16, weekdays from 12-1 p.m. PST (exact dates TBD)
    • Speaker expertise in the fields of chemistry, manufacturing, and controls; clinical trials; quality; market access/reimbursement; and regulatory affairs

What You Will Learn

Participants will learn about career alternatives in the biomedical industries to plan their educational and career choices better. Through the interactions and discussions with these KGI alumni, students will appreciate the day-to-day activities and challenges associated with careers in a specific area.
